of love and hope

2020-2021

Dear Friend,

In the New Testament, Jesus commands us to “love one another” (John 13:34), just as He loved us. We are asked to care for our brothers and sisters with the powerful, unfailing love our Saviour has for us. In post-Covid times, new difficulties have been heaped upon existing hardships and distress that our suffering family already bear. They need our gifts of love and hope more than ever. Barnabas Fund is now focusing on post-Covid priorities that will make the biggest difference to suffering Christians in extreme need. Through Barnabas you can help them to rebuild their lives, gain self-sufficiency, access vital healthcare, find spiritual sustenance or be trained for much-needed Church leadership roles. Widows and orphans are a fast-growing group. In West Africa this is due to a terrible surge in anti-Christian violence during lockdown. These, the elderly and other vulnerable Christians need essential aid to survive. And the next generation – the children and young people – need education and skills to equip them for the future.

Investing in hope

Our global persecuted family face discrimination, pressure, violence and even death because of their faith. Through prayer and by practical support, we can help them in their time of need. Supporting Barnabas Fund through your gifts and prayers for the post-Covid priority projects you will read about in the following pages is a powerful way that you can transform the lives of fellow believers.

In this catalogue you will find many ways that you, your small group or your church can invest in hope, by making a gift to help Christians facing persecution, discrimination and poverty for owning the Name of the Lord Jesus Christ as their Saviour. By donating to a project you can make a lasting, often life-changing, difference to the lives of our Christian brothers and sisters who are standing firm in their faith in the midst of extreme adversity.

On each page you will find a particular area of post-Covid need and suggested gifts that could make a thoughtful alternative birthday or Christmas gift. We can also supply an attractive gift card to send to the person on whose behalf you have made the donation. For details of the different gift cards available, see page iv in the centre of this booklet.

Regular gifts allow us to plan strategically, respond quickly to urgent situations, and also help to keep our administrative costs low. Our regular donations form can be found on pages i-iv.

Please prayerfully consider your response to the needs outlined in the following pages and give as the Lord leads. Pray also for the projects and those they seek to help.

May you be blessed as you show your love for the suffering Body of Christ and bring them the hope they need.

Yours sincerely in Christ,

Schools and vocational training

Investing in the next generation

"I, who was a child of the street, have become a child of God,"
said Ahmed

Akash is thriving at his new Christian school

Millions of Christian families still live in the vicious cycle of poverty and illiteracy. This can often be broken simply by educating one generation, thus enabling them to get better jobs than their parents.

Twelve-year-old Akash from Pakistan should be in Class 7, but is still in Class 2. Because he is Christian, he was not allowed to eat or drink with his Muslim classmates at his previous (non-Christian) school. He was bullied so badly that he was often too frightened to go to school, and fell behind in lessons. Akash is now rapidly catching up at his new Christian school.

Vocational training enables young Christians to find work

We also provide vocational training to enable young Christians to develop skills that can help them earn a living. "Ahmed's" parents wanted him to become an imam and sent him to Quranic school, which he hated. He ran away and began living on the streets of Senegal. Later he became a Christian and suffered persecution of this decision. With funding from Barnabas, Ahmed trained as a shoe repairer, and is now supporting himself with these skills. "Without the Barnabas Fund, I was never going to train myself and earn my dignity as a man," he said.

In Pakistan we are supporting an apprenticeship project, in which Christian school-leavers learn trades, such as electrician, tailor, plumber, hair-dressing or car mechanic, by on-the-job experience. Barnabas also covers the costs of an older Christian who visits the apprentices to mentor them and give them pastoral encouragement.

could educate a child at Akash's very basic school for a month

$18

could provide one month of support for a Pakistani Christian apprentice learning a trade

$69

could provide a month of quality education for a young Christian in Bethlehem

$552

could provide vocational training in sewing or hairdressing for a Christian convert in Senegal for six months

Living Streams: Sponsor a schoolchild

Give a Christian child the gift of hope by funding their education at a Christian school

Your regular monthly gift of $30* could sponsor a child to grow in body, mind and spirit. We will give you details and a photo of the child you are helping and news updates from time to time. Investing in livelihoods and self-sufficiency

This church-based chicken farm provides income for poor Christian families in a south-east Asian country where Christians suffer severe persecution

Economies across the world are plunging due to the Covid crisis. The flow of funds from wealthier countries to developing countries is likely to diminish. At Barnabas Fund we believe it is time for churches everywhere to become self-funding and self-sustaining, like the New Testament churches, especially in situations of pressure and persecution.

Join with us now to invest in hope by funding start-up costs for a wide range of income-generating projects. Some support individual families through “living businesses”; others will provide running costs for churches, seminaries, Christian schools and other Christian ministries.

Seeds and tools can get a family started with a small agricultural project. Or we can provide animals, whether chickens, ducks, goats, pigs or even cattle.

For widows and other women supporting their children from the safety of the home, the ideal is a sewing machine or cooking equipment. Another safe project for women is working in a beauty salon; Barnabas can provide furnishings and equipment to get a beautician business off the ground.

On a larger scale, a group of families could share an auto-rickshaw (“tuk-tuk”) and earn income as a taxi.

Many Bible colleges or seminaries in Asia have extensive areas of land lying idle. For a small input of equipment and seed, the land can become productive, growing cash-crops to support the running costs of the institution.

could buy a fryingpan for a home-based business to cook and sell snacks

$31

could buy two chickens as part of a church chicken project to help rural Christian families in south-east Asia

$73

could buy a piglet for a pig farming project for poor and persecuted Christians in south-east Asia

$162

could provide a stove and gas cylinder for a Christian woman to help her start-up a small cooking business

$789

could provide a motorcycle cart in Pakistan for transporting goods or a mobile market stall

Vulnerable
Christians

Investing in practical care for the vulnerable

Shared tube-wells with hand-pumps for vulnerable Christians in Bangladesh

Widows and orphans, refugees, victims of violence and injustice, converts from other religions, and those afflicted by natural disasters – through Barnabas Fund you can transform the lives of the most vulnerable Christians, both individuals and communities. In a world distracted by the struggle with coronavirus, their needs remain and must not be forgotten.

We provided aid for Christians after a murderous attack by Fulani militants on Hura village in Plateau State, Nigeria, in which nine Christians died. The village was sheltering hundreds of Christians who had fled previous Fulani onslaughts on nearby communities, attacks that increased during lockdown. Thanking Barnabas, a pastor said, “What you have done is rekindle the faith in our people that indeed God cares and is always with us in our suffering.”

We helped a Kyrgyz widow who had to flee with her children after her husband died of Covid-19. The couple were converts from Islam to Christianity, very active in serving the Lord, and their young children were all believers. But, as soon as the funeral was over, the husband’s Muslim relatives descended on his widow, trying to take her 12-year-old son to train him to propagate Islam. In the anonymity of a strange city, the bereaved family were safe but had nothing to live on. Barnabas helped local churches to support them and buy the equipment the widow needed to earn a living with her tailoring skills.

Barnabas has assisted over 600,000 Christians affected by the coronavirus crisis or the 2020 locust swarms, which were the worst for decades. Many Christians who lost their livelihoods overnight through lockdown also saw their crops destroyed by the insects.

could help support a Christian widow for a month

$51

could provide two sleeping mats and two blankets for Nigerian Christians displaced by violence

$227

could provide a tube-well for a community of poor and persecuted Christians in Bangladesh

About Barnabas Fund

As part of the family of God, Barnabas Fund stand with our Christian brothers and sisters around the world, including the West, wherever they suffer discrimination, oppression or persecution as a result of their faith. In this way we witness to the love of Christ and build His Kingdom.

1. We encourage prayer for the persecuted Church by providing comprehensive prayer materials. We believe in the power of prayer to change people's lives and circumstances, either through grace to endure or through deliverance from suffering.

2. We channel money from Christians through Christians to Christians. Donations from individuals and churches are forwarded to local ministries and Christian organisations in contexts of persecution, mainly in Muslim-majority environments, to bring about practical and spiritual transformation in the lives of suffering believers.

3. We tell the untold story about the plight of persecuted Christians and speak out on their behalf, making their needs known to Christians around the world and to governments and international bodies.

We seek to tackle persecution at its root by making known the aspects of religious and secular ideologies that result in injustice and oppression of Christians and others. We also equip Christians in the West to meet the challenge that other religions pose to the Church, its mission and society.

We believe the clear Biblical teaching that Christians should treat all people of all religions and none with love and compassion, even those who seek to persecute them. We carry out our vision and purpose accordingly, but we will not compromise what we believe the Word of God teaches.

“As we have opportunity, let us do good to all people, especially to those who belong to the family of believers.” Galatians 6:10, (NIV, emphasis added)

Blessed to be a blessing to others

Bringing hope and a future to this and the next generation of believers

Blessed to be a blessing to our Christian family all over the world

God blessed Abraham so that he could in turn be a blessing to others (Genesis 12:2). Not just members of his own family, tribe, city or nation, but all the peoples of the earth. After you have taken care of your loved ones in your will, please consider widening your care to those who belong to your extended family, that is your Christian brothers and sisters worldwide.

*A gift that never passes away
“Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will never pass away.” –
Luke 21:33*

What kind of blessing can you pass on to others?

A legacy gift (that is, a gift included in your will) can:

- Feed Christians facing hunger and deprivation, disadvantaged for belonging to the family of God
- Help believers who have suffered violence for their faith
- Give shelter to displaced Christian families fleeing persecution in their homeland
- Support an evangelist or pastor facing daily danger in their ministry in regions where Christians are a persecuted minority

- Strengthen Christian brothers and sisters with Bibles in their own language
- Train young children up in their faith through Christian schooling

Writing a will

In New Zealand there are strict rules governing who will receive your estate if you die without leaving a will (intestate). These intestacy rules will automatically apply, and your estate will pass to defined close family members, or, if none are alive, to the government. If you want to choose who benefits from your estate, maybe to leave a legacy to your grandchildren or a Christian ministry such as Barnabas Fund, it is essential to write a will.

Please do remember to help your Christian family when you come to plan for your future

If you would like a copy of our Guide to Making Your Will with more information about how to leave a gift to Barnabas Fund through your will, please contact: office@barnabasfund.org.nz or phone (09) 280 4385 or fill out the form below and send it to: PO Box 276018, Manukau City, Auckland, 2241

* Estate – all the money and property that a person owns, especially everything that is left when they die.

Medical care

Investing in health care

Nurses dispense vital medicines to Christian brick-kiln families from a mobile healthcare unit in Pakistan

The Covid-19 crisis highlighted a desperate need for healthcare for poor and persecuted Christians.

Needy Christian families are now even more impoverished after losing months of income or their livelihoods disappearing altogether during lockdown. The cost of healthcare, medicines or surgery are now simply out of reach for many Christians.

Sickness or an accident can be disastrous for a Christian family living at a simple level, earning just enough for their daily needs, but whose small savings could never cover costly medical care.

In post-Covid times, Barnabas is helping to establish and support simple, cost-effective Christian clinics and dispensaries, especially in places where Christians are already marginalised and persecuted.

Mental health is also a growing area of need, not only because of Covid lockdown but also because of anti-Christian violence. Trauma counselling brings hope and peace.

Example: Pakistan – mobile healthcare units for brick-kiln families

Brick-kiln workers are at particular risk of chronic respiratory symptoms and illness due to the dust and smoke they are exposed to in their work. Most lack equipment, masks and clothes to protect them. Poor sanitation for workers and lack of proper toilets or fresh food also bring health risks.

Women often work hard alongside their husbands in the gruelling heat and dust, even working during pregnancy. On top of the hard labour, women also look after their family's needs, collecting wood and water and other household chores. Young mothers are especially at risk and there is a high rate of infant mortality.

Barnabas is funding mobile units with nurses and a driver/assistant that will provide regular health checks, medical treatments and medicines for impoverished Christian brick-kiln families.

$20 could provide a stethoscope

$51 could provide a day's running costs for a simple, cost effective, church-based clinic

$69 could provide a drip stand

$99 could pay for 25 Pakistani Christian women to attend a church-run seminar on health education

$3,054 could provide the set-up costs for a mobile health-care unit to serve Pakistani Christian brick-kiln communities (excluding vehicle costs)

Leadership training

Investing in leaders

Doctoral students gather periodically for training in research methodology etc. (This photo was taken before Covid-19. Meetings now are by video conferencing.)

The Covid-19 pandemic has changed the world. Greater pressures face us all, and greater persecution looms for many of our brothers and sisters. Now, more than ever, good leadership is needed in the Church.

But many leaders serving faithfully in places of poverty or persecution have had little or no opportunity for training. Another factor is that several countries have recently imposed new requirements on those in Christian ministry, who now need to have appropriate academic credentials or they are not allowed to minister.

Barnabas Fund is therefore increasing our investment in Christian leadership training, both theological and the other skills that pastors, evangelists, church-planters and ministry leaders need, especially in a post-covid situation.

With twenty-first century technology, much training can be done part-time and at a distance, instead of in a classroom. This not only prevents the spread of the virus but also means that students can continue with their ministry or paid employment without disruption. But there are church leaders so poor that they do not have a laptop or tablet, or even a smart phone. For some, who struggle even to feed their families, the internet connection itself may be financially out of their reach.

Please join with us to invest in equipping and training church leadership. If we strengthen the leaders, they can strengthen their church members to cope with the increasing discrimination, harassment and other pressures that they face.

1. The Shepherd's Academy – holistic training for grass-roots pastors, modelled on the ministry of the Good Shepherd. Training is at certificate level (one year), diploma level (two years) and BMin level (three years).
2. Master's degrees to equip more senior leaders with specific knowledge related to their context and the particular challenges posed by the other religion among whom they live.
3. Doctoral study for the most senior leaders, pursuing their own original research for a PhD on a subject of real practical relevance to the Church in their own context.

Typical costs are as follows:

Shepherd's Academy

$53 per student per month;
$631 to gain certificate;
$1,261 to gain diploma;
$1,892 to gain BMin.

Master's degree

$16,944 to complete doctorate over four years, part-time.

Spiritual resources

Investing in the spiritual life of persecuted believers

“Dawgn” holds her new Bible, in her own language, that Barnabas helped to provide for her in the camp for Internally Displaced People where she has lived for eight years

“When the war came to our village, we had to flee,” said “Dawgn”, a Sunday School teacher in an Asian country where Christians are violently persecuted. “I had one Bible from the Sunday school. I took it with me when we left our village. We were hiding in the jungle and my Bible was in my bag. Then all of a sudden soldiers discovered us and started shooting at us. I had no time to get my bag. I only grabbed our children and ran. So I lost my Bible and I have been depressed and sad about this for the past eight years. But today God answered my prayers ...”

Fundamental to everything that Barnabas Fund does is to resource our persecuted brothers and sisters spiritually – so they can stand firm in the Lord, no matter what pressures and persecution they face.

This has become all the more imperative in the time of coronavirus, as lockdowns and curfews come and go, and Christians are increasingly cut off from each other.

Of course, Bibles, New Testaments and Gospels are the most important resource. Sometimes we pay for translation, sometimes for printing, sometimes for transport.

But other literature can be very helpful too. Barnabas Fund is often asked to provide hymn books and song books to help suffering Christians in their worship. In countries like Egypt, Kazakhstan and Kyrgyzstan, Christian magazines for children are greatly used by the Lord to encourage young believers in their faith, despite the hostility and contempt that face them from the rest of society.

Literature like this helps to undergird the faith of persecuted believers and give them hope.

There are also other resources, especially digital, which can make a vital difference to those living daily with pressures of many kinds. On the next page, you can read about our new Barnabas Today website, created to provide effective spiritual encouragement for Christians in places of poverty, pressure and persecution around the world.

Our new website: barnabastoday.com

BARNABAS TODAY

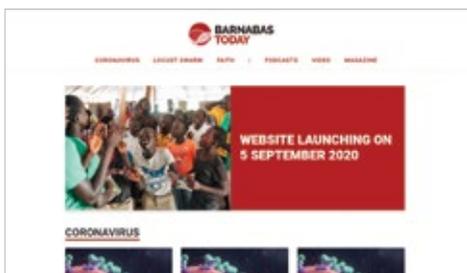

Launched in September 2020 and edited from India, the aim of our new Barnabas Today website is to provide spiritual resources to encourage poor and persecuted Christians.

We are prioritising resources created by our brothers and sisters living in those situations of poverty and persecution, not resources from the Church in the comfortable West.

With God's help, this new website will be a platform from which Christians can freely watch, read, listen or download material to touch their hearts, educate their minds and strengthen their souls. There are hymns and songs in different languages, with local music coming out of the various contexts. There are Bible studies, sermons and devotional material written by Christians from the midst of the fiery furnace, believers who really know what it is to suffer for Christ and can share from their own experience to strengthen others.

And these resources are there online to bless all of us, wherever we live. As anti-Christian pressure mounts in the West, there will be a treasure of spiritual strength and wisdom from the persecuted Church, on which Western Christians can also draw as they equip themselves for persecution not seen for generations.

The Barnabas Today website, launched in September 2020, provides spiritual resources to sustain persecuted Christians, available in languages including Urdu, Russian, Chinese, Portuguese and English
